CORDON OF POLICE PLACED ABOUT HALL HOME

Bonus Fight Will Continue TO CUT FARES ON NOVEMBER 15TH

DIPLOMATIC RATHER THAN MILITANT WILL BE LEGION'S EFFORT
FOR 'COMPENSATION'

Plan Decided Upon By Conference of "Leading Lights"
Of Order

PRESIDENT HARDING WILL NOT BE BLAMED

Criticism of Executive And Senate Deleted From The Resolutions

(By International News Service)
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—Diplomatic, rather than militant efforts to secure adjusted compensation for the country's ex-service men will be the policy of the American Legion
during the coming year.

This was decided at a conference
by those high in the Legion's councils and was reflected in resolutions adopted by the resolutions committee, from which all criticism of President Harding for vetoing
the soldier bonus bill and of the senate for failure to pass it over his veto, was carefully eliminated.

Another important national policy, decided upon by the Legion, was the enactment of a universal draft law intended to "take the profits out of war" and compel the conscription in a national emergency like war not only of the nation's fighting men but
of all available manpower and resources.

The proposed law would be aimed particularly at rendering "war profiteering" impossible, it was said.

A report, which was adopted unanimously, by the Legion's national committee on military affairs,
will be presented to the convention
which will urge congress to immediate enactment of a "universal service law" to enable the president to draft all the nation's men and resources without further legislation in case of a national emergency.

The report of the Legion's naval affairs committee demanded immediate increase in the personnel of the navy from 86,000 to 105,000 and urged no Legionnaire to vote for a candidate for congress who does not come out for a "bigger and better navy."

British to Stop Kemalist Police

(Associated Press.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 18.—
The allied mission has reached unanimous decision forbidding the Kemalist soldiers destined for Thrace to enter Constantinople. The British navy has been ordered to stop all vessels bearing Turkish national police.

WALTER F. GEORGE ELECTED SENATOR IN PRIMARY RACE

(By International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 18.—Administering to Thomas W. Hardwick, a former United States senator, the most humiliating defeat of his career.
Judge Walter F. George today had been nominated to succeed the late Thomas Watson, as United States
senator from Georgia.

Judge George will take the seat
made vacant by the death of Senator Watson when congress reconvenes after the November election, as nomination on the Democratic ticket in Georgia is equivalent to election.

Mrs. W. H. Felton, recently appointed to the senate by Governor Hardwick to fill the interim between Senator Watson's death and the election, will reach the end of her tenure of office immediately after the election.

Judge George's victory was most impressive. He not only crushed his nearest competitor with an avan-che of votes but so clearly swept the state that the third man in the race Seaborn Wright, of Rome, running on a prohibition platform, hardly polled a single unit vote—a state provision that operates similar to the national electoral college.

PASSENGER RATES ARE TO RETURN TO THREE CENT BASIS COMMISSION SAYS

Only Hope of Railroads Seems To Be Through An Injunction

REDUCTION ORDERED BY UTILITY BODY JULY 15

Delayed Twice by Commission
Because of Unsettled Business Conditions

(Montgomery Bureau,
Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 18.—
Passenger fares in Alabama will be three cents after November 15. On receipt of information from the Interstate Commerce Commission today that no hearing will be given to the railroads petition seeking to prevent the effectiveness of the order for a reduction of railroad rates the public service commission, through B.
H. Cooper and S. P. Gaillard, members, announced that no further extensions would be granted and that the order would become effective on November 15.

The only hope of the railroads will be through an application for an injunction and then an appeal to the interstate commerce commission.
Shortly after the public service commission ordered a reduction in rates in July, the railroads appealed to the interstate commerce commission for a review. Because of the strike the commission granted an extension expiring Nov. 15.

R. E. Quirk, chief examiner of the interstate commerce commission, addressed a letter to Charles J. Rixey, attorney for the Southern Railway System, advising that the commission could not consider the railroads' appeal at this time. A copy was received by the public service commission today.

The letter states:
"Referring further to your letter of August 18 with which you enclose copies of a petition on behalf of carriers operating in Alabama for an extension with respect to passenger fares within that state:

"Your petition has had the consideration of the commission and I am directed to advise that the commission will not consider the institution of an investigation upon that petition until and unless the fares prescribed by the Alabama commission become effective."

FRED HALL GIVES HIMSELF UP TO BEGIN HIS SENTENCE OF LIFE

(Montgomery Bureau,
Albany-Decatur Daily.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 18.
Fred Hall, Russellville merchant, walked into the state convict department, unaccompanied by an officer of the law, Tuesday and surrendered to begin a life sentence for murder. It was one of the few instances in the history of the state's prison system where a person had come voluntarily and unaccompanied to begin his service.

Mr. Hall was accompanied from his home at Russellville by his brother, M. W. Hall and Herman Hall, and W. L. Chenault, one of his attorneys. They first called at the state convict department and later in the day, accompanied by Dr. Smith, physician-inspector, went to Kilby prison
where Hall was given his assignment.

ANOTHER PERFECT LOVER IS PUT TO DEATH

Guy N. Dernier.

The body of Guy N. Dernier, formerly efficiency expert for Montgomery Ward & Co., of Chicago, but later a resident of Phoenix, Ariz., was found in an irrigation ditch there. A diary on his person showed he was carrying on love affairs with twenty-two wealthy married women, and the husband of one of them was suspected.
He had been named as co-respondent
in six divorce suits.

COTTON HAS STAGED GREAT COME-BACK

Cotton has staged a wonderful comeback. The staple sold on the local markets Tuesday for 23c.
Eighteen and one-half cents has been the lowest price prevailing locally
this season. Many are of the opinion that the staple will go to 25 cents before the Christmas season or even higher. There is more demand for spot cotton than for many years, and many mills have agents over the country getting hold of what they can, the shipments being made directly to the mill.

Cotton is practically out over the entire cotton producing states. Statistics have shown that there would be no surplus to carry over from this season. With cotton goods advancing and general business righting itself in every direction, many believe that those who have spot cotton will be rewarded in a very substantial way by holding on to it.

Every indication is that there is a scramble on now for the staple which is bound to put it up during the next two or three months.

The supreme court affirmed
the sentence several months ago and a week ago denied the application for rehearing. Hall was convicted of the murder of Martha Henderson, who was killed by pistol shots as she attempted to enter his store eighteen months ago.

When Hall called at the convict department and announced his readiness to begin his sentence
the department had no record of his conviction and sentence. The certificate of affirmance had not reached the Franklin circuit court
when he left for Montgomery.

Hall had an excellent reputation in Russellville until the affair which brought on the killing and Sheriff L. T. Todd of Franklin county readily consented for him to come unaccompanied
by an officer.

WIDOW OF RECTOR TOLD SHE WILL BE QUESTIONED AGAIN BY STATE'S POLICE

Will Be Compelled to Account For Every Minute of Time

WATCH SAID TO HAVE BEEN FOUND IN HOME

Members of State Police Detailed
To Accompany Mrs. Hall

(By International News Service.)

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct.
18.—A cordon of New Jersey state police today surrounded the house of Mrs. Edward W. Hall, widow of the rector which with his beautiful choir leader, Mrs. James Mills, was murdered on the night of Sept. 14.

Mrs. Hall and her eccentric brother, Willie Stevens, both of whom were questioned at great length on Tuesday, live in the Hall residence.

Mrs. Hall was informed that she would be questioned again today and that she would be compelled to account for every minute of her time between 8 o'clock on the night of Sept. 14 and the early hours of Sept.
15. It was in that interval that Dr.
Hall and Mrs. Mills were shot to death on the Phillips farm, where their bodies were found on Sept. 15.

The most sensational development of the whole mystery was the reported discovery that the watch and purse of Dr. Hall are now in the possession of the widow. When the body was found the watch and purse, together with all the money, were missing, indicating that robbery had been the motive of the crime. Later it was reported the watch had been located in a Philadelphia pawn shop.

Representatives of both Somerset and Middlesex counties were detailed to accompany Mrs. Hall to the People's Trust Company to open the safety deposit box rented by her husband.

Several members of the state police also were detailed to accompany the widow and make an inventory of everything found in the box.

NO EVIDENCE FOUND OF ANY FOUL PLAY

Following a report from W. V.
Davidson, former chief of police of Albany, who made an investigation of the death of Dr. M. W. Murray, the case still is unsolved.

While many profess to believe that Dr. Murray may have been robbed of $250 which was missing when his body was found on the Louisville and Nashville railroad tracks, Mr. Davidson was unable to find any clue that would indicate he met with foul play, according to information here today.

SAID "CAN'T BE DONE."

"My experience with doctors and medicines caused me to lose faith in both and when a friend told me that Mayr's Wonderful Remedy would cure my stomach trouble I told him 'it can't be done.' However, he finally persuaded me to try it and to my surprise it did. All symptoms of acute indigestion and gas having disappeared." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. County Court To Convene Monday

The Morgan county court will convene again Monday for a week session at Decatur. The last week of the court which was held here was seriously hampered by the absence of attorneys and others who were connected with cases called from the docket at that time. Judge Lowe is in earnest about clearing his large docket which has accumulated during the past few months, and will continue the session of his court until the desired end is accomplished.

THE END OF DICKY'S FISHING TRIP

DICKY jerked out his line and threw it back into the water with a terrible splash. He could see the fish, great, big fellows, swimming back and forth around a sunken log on the bottom of the pond, but none of them seemed to notice the dangling line with its wriggling worm.

"Strange!" mused Dicky, pulling out the line and sending it back right into the crowd of fish. "It's the strangest thing I've ever seen. They seem to be blind."

"Patience—patience," laughed a merry voice, and Squeedee, Dicky's little friend from Joyland, hopped down on the edge of the boat beside him.

"Patience!" cried Dicky. "I think I have had patience. Why, Squeedee, those crazy fish have been swimming around that log for a long time. I can see them. Why, I almost dropped the worm in their mouths, and they didn't seem to pay any attention to it."

Squeedee glanced over the edge of the boat. He could see the big fish swimming in and out of the sunken log. The worm surely was dangling in their very midst, and yet not one of them seemed to pay any attention to it.

"That is strange," Squeedee smiled. "Something must be wrong."

He started to climb over the edge of the boat, but Dicky held him back by his coat-tails.

"Oh, please, please, Squeedee, don't go without me!" And, of course, Squeedee at once waved his magic wand over Dicky's head and before he knew it he was standing on the bottom of the pond beside Squeedee.

"Hello, there, Bady Bass!" Squeedee cried, and several of the big fish swam up to welcome the little elfin.

Dicky sat down on a stone—he was so tiny that the fish looked like whales beside him as Squeedee went on:

"I wondered what all this commotion was down here. Dicky has been trying to feed you for ever so long, but you didn't seem to be able to see his offering."

"Well," grunted Bady Bass in a deep, gruff voice. "If you want a thing done well, don't try to do it but that one thing at a time—that is our motto. We've been very busy today. We just finished our nest, and we have it full of eggs. When we come to that point in the game it means that we must keep to our posts."

"Hello, There, Bady Bass!"

"Are these your eggs?" asked Dicky, looking into the hollow log.

"They belong to all of us," Bady Bass explained. "You see, we find it much easier to make the nest together, lay our eggs at the same time and all keep watch. Why, you've no idea how careful we have to be!"

"There are no sharks in here, are there?" asked Dicky.

"Sharks!" No, indeed, but there are plenty of thieves," replied Bady Bass. "There are the eels, the catfish, the perch, and those horrid old suckers that always lie in wait for a chance at our eggs. I'll admit that I'm hungry, but I couldn't afford to lose my eggs, you see."

"Then I'll bring your dinner to you," laughed Dicky, and he ran over to where his fishing line was dangling all unnoticed in the water, pulled off the wriggling worm, and divided it among the five friends of Bady Bass. "I see right here and now that I'll have to stop fishing in this pond."

"Yes, do for a little while," begged Bady Bass. "After a while we'll be glad to send up one of us for your dinner. Please! that's what we're for. And you'd die laughing to see us scrambling around the worm wrestling to see who will get first honor. Glad you came down, Dicky, come again."

Then, without another word, Bady Bass and her friends went on with their weaving around the log, and Dicky and Squeedee went back up through the water to the boat. The rest of the day Dicky spent in gathering waterlilies.

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE CARELESS.

Women are too apt to overestimate their strength and overtax it. When feeling well they take unnecessary chances, which in the long run cause much pain and trouble. Wet feet, exposure to cold, lifting heavy burdens and overwork will often develop troubles which cause no end of suffering. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing remedy in such cases. Thousands of American women will testify to this fact who have regained health and strength by its use. If you are suffering it will pay you to give it a fair trial.—Adv.

WORDS of WISE MEN

Love sees no faults.
Be as you would seem to be.
Eternity is the eternal now.
A word is enough to the wise.
From nothing, nothing can come.
Envy is the thorn of little minds.
At a great bargain make a pause.
Your worst enemy wears your hat.
Happy is he that serveth the happy.
Better go away longing than loathing.
Fame is the perfume of heroic deeds.
One so easily forgets one's past self.
Silence is the hedge that guards wisdom.
Love rules his kingdom without a sword.
God, from a beautiful necessity, is love.
The highest mountain lessens as we climb.
No two grains of sand are exactly alike.
Envy will find faults where there are none.
A life of employment is a life of enjoyment.
Forget others' faults by remembering your own.
A man can die for another's life work, but if he lives he must live for his own.

REMAKING A MAN FOR $7.05

Before and After

Demonstrations given by delegates to the National Barbers' Supply convention in Chicago proved conclusively that a man may be materially changed from a typical "down and outer" to the appearance of one "influential." These pictures show Will Hays, a confessed "bum," as he looked when the delegates picked him up, and as he appeared when they had done $7.05 worth of work on him.

Business Session Marks Progress

singers last evening there was some delay in the opening session. The first number was the well known pageant "The Eyes of the World," as directed by Mrs. L. J. Whaley. The history of Christian missions and the progress of woman's public service was shown in the pageant.

During the progress of the pageant

a number of attractive musical numbers by Miss Ruth Banks, Mrs. E. H. Pulliam and Cy Graham, was rendered. Devotionals were conducted by Dr. J. F. Sturdivant, pastor of the Central Methodist Church, following which the state president, Mrs. Mary T. Jeffers, took the chair, and made a few pleasing remarks, after which Mayor Britain won the delegates and the large audience with a hearty welcome address followed by similar addresses by Miss Ellen Gronendyke, Mrs. J. L. Proctor, Prof. R. W. Cowart, Mrs.

L. A. Neil and Miss Unity Dancy. When Miss Dancy arose to speak she inquired of Mrs. C. W. Black, local chairman of the W. C. T. U. to know if she was expected to discuss any special topic. Receiving a negative reply, Miss Dancy, in a most gracious manner bid the delegates thrice welcome. The speaker said that her mind was full of memories of how ridicule and even misrepresentation met the women of the early days when they first essayed the role of public servants. The speaker closed with the historic last lines of "Flanders Fields," substituting "Southern Lands" at the last as follows:

"To you we throw the torch; 'tis yours to hold it high. If ye break faith with us who die, we will not sleep, though flowers bloom 'in Southern fields.'"

Miss Ellen Gronendyke has long been written down as the dean of W. C. T. U. women in this community. Miss Gronendyke made one of the most acceptable speeches of the entire convention up to the present. She was witty as well as wise, and caught the sympathy and imagination of her hearers when she said, "Our hearts have been all aflutter for a year for the success of this convention."

Miss Garner Makes Reply.

The response address to the several hearty welcomes was made by Miss Allie Garner of Ozark, state historian of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, as well as the General Secretary of the State W. C. T. U. Miss Garner made a unique reference to the first two people who ever came upon the earth according to Holy Writ, and declared that while Adam got in the first word in welcoming Eve, that his wife got in the last word when she made her responsive address.

This sally created widespread merriment and opened the hearts of her hearers for the more serious thoughts of the speaker. Like Miss Dancy, Miss Garner warned her hearers to wear the whole armor of service, and to make haste to do good, "as the King's business demands haste."

CHARLES FRANCK DELIVERS ADDRESS

Charles H. Frank, president of the Trade Council of Mobile, was the principal speaker at the rail strikers public meeting at the Princess Theater this morning. Mr. Frank carried credentials showing he is one of the Mobile Port Amendment committee and he devoted the greater part of his address to the advocacy of the passage of the port amendment when the voters pass on the issue in November.

Rev. R. F. Stuckey was scheduled to speak but was reported indisposed. He will speak to tomorrow morning if able to do so.

Short speeches were made by E. C. Wilson, J. Ben Barrett, Rural T. Brothers, Herbert McCluskey and others.

After going home complications set in and she was returned to the hospital Tuesday, and is in a very serious condition, physicians being in constant attendance.

DRY OFFICERS "SOAKED"

RAIDING BOOTLEGGERS

(By International News Service) COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 18.—Two dry enforcement officers were so badly "soaked" during a raid here that they had to change their clothes.

Raiding property of Peter Bosetti, of No. 856 Reynolds avenue, at night, the officers unearthed a still, twenty-five gallons of wine and a truckload of army goods.

Rolling a large barrel of wine from Bosetti's basement, State Officer Ross and Patrolman Harmon were drenched when the barrel broke.

Made Paradise for Birds.

A naturalist is the last person in the world one would expect to succeed as a farmer. They won't plow a field if a bird has made its nest there. John I. Audubon, greatest nature student of his day, bought 40 acres at Carmanville, on the Hudson, to do some farming. The best part of his property was fenced in for deer, elk, and wolves. His orchard, 200 trees of apples, pears, plums, apricots, and nectarines, was left as a paradise for birds—it was Audubon's study. However he had no scruples against fishing, and caught 200-pound sturgeons in the Hudson.

Speaker and Lord Chancellor.

One difference between the speaker of the English house of commons and the lord chancellor, who occupies a similar position in the house of lords, is that while the speaker cannot take part in debates and can vote only when there is a tie, the lord chancellor is entitled to speak and vote on all occasions.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

LET US HAVE PEACE

In each heart the desire for peace must first originate. The progress in many quarters of the earth will be slow and unyielding, for under the tutorage of those who have a desire for war with all its fearful consequences, the germ is sown, and brings fruit thereof in proportion. On the other hand, if the nations of the earth should begin a campaign for peace with the same earnestness with which the campaign for war is carried on, there would be a corresponding increase in the numbers who would adhere to the doctrine of peace, and this would be handed down and bear fruit which would, be to the benefit of all the nations of the world.

Our government took a high stand during the World war when it announced that, acquisition of more territory was not in the minds of the rulers of this great country, and on this decision prepared for one of the greatest military campaigns in its history, and led the way for the crumbling of one of the greatest military nations of the earth, and saved to future generations the unholy things which would have been thrust upon them had we been less alert. It is considered by many of the greatest thinkers of both the old and the new world, that had the 14 points been adopted by the great nations of the earth permanent peace would have been a reality and not a dream. Since that time we perchance have come a step nearer the dawn of permanent peace by the agreement of disarmament, and this idea has been carried out in a way. But the germ of war still lingers, and will continue to do so, until the principle of universal peace so thoroughly takes possession of all the people, that war will be unthinkable. Until then, we are at the mercy of those who think and plan that these terrible things shall be.

REPUBLICAN ORATORS AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

When Republicans are called on to tell why they opposed the League of Nations about the only answer they make is: "It won't do." Their attitude is on a par with that taken by a distinguished Englishman as regards his attitude toward the church and religious matters. He is reported to have said: I am a strong supporter of the church, and I yield to no man in my respect for religion; but when it comes to a man's personal life, really, now, really!"

If Republicans attempt to say anything against the League, it is most generally that such and such a prominent party man is against it—but they never add that most of the men against the league were once quoted as being heartily in favor of it. For political or other reasons, Republicans seem to have decided that the voices of such men as H. C. Lodge are the voices of the high gods. Such will acknowledge that basically, the league is sound, knowing all the while that such faint praise only tends to damn the league. Many other great causes of the past have been hurt with "faint praise" when an open attack would have helped the cause. The politicians have no choice but to admit that the covenant of the League of Nations as advocated by Woodrow Wilson, represents a great principle. They know that it is but a practical application to international affairs, of a principle that has been accepted by individuals, since the morning of history. In other words, none can gainsay the truth that nations as well as individuals should submit to the reign of law. If individuals should obey law, why should not those collections of individuals called nations do likewise? Absolutely, the Republican party and its spokesmen are guilty of exactly the same kind of a subterfuge as the Englishman just referred to. "The League is a good thing, and we yield to none in agreeing that it is a good thing, we yield to none in our respect to law, even when applied to nations as well as to individuals, but when it comes to us agreeing that any law shall interfere in any way with the action of a nation, why really, now really"—such is the attitude of those who are opposing the League of Nations—that is what there is about it, and that is all there is about it.

AN ENGLISHMAN, NOT AN AMERICAN IS THE GREATEST OF PRESENT DAY POLITICIANS.

Lloyd George, English Premier for a longer period than any man during or since the World War has held a similar position in any first class country, is being tried for his political life. At the last hearing from abroad Mr. George seemed to have the best of the argument. His enemies are charging that he has made fatal errors in the handling of the Near East problems, especially the Turks. A leading English editor named J. L. Garvin says:

"Of all we are supposed to have won in the near east in the great war, not one asset remains, while the loss of our moral reputation is unparalleled in our relations with the Moslem world. To antagonize simultaneously Russia, Turkey and all Islam is merely madness."

Mr. George replies:

"The war of 1914 practically began in the Balkans. We had to act promptly, resolutely and firmly. Since 1914, the Turks, according to official testimony, have slaughtered in cold blood 1,500,000 Armenians and 500,000 Greeks without any provocation at all."

"It's no use trying to bluff a first rate fighting animal," said Mr. Lloyd George referring to the Near East. "It's always a mistake to threaten unless you mean it. The Turks knew we meant it and that's why we have peace."

"I am told we have departed from the methods of the old diplomacy. That's very sad! The old diplomacy ended in the most disastrous war this world has ever seen. The amateur diplomacy of 1922 has at least brought peace."

"I am sorry to see that the Liberals have been pleading that it was none of our business to intervene between the Turks and their victims. That was not the old Liberal doctrine. I maintain that the policy we adopted regarding Turkey was in accordance with the highest interests and traditions of this land, and we have reason to be proud it succeeded."

Whether Lloyd George has served his country and the civilized world, badly or well, it is impossible to say but the fact remains that he held one of the two or three most powerful offices in the world, during the most terrible period in human history. A man that has been able to hold his country together, for nearly seven long years is not so easily deposed in a conservative country like England. Over here it would have been different. George would have lasted no longer in America than has Woodrow Wilson, admittedly the most powerful man of the war period. The London Times predicts that a general election will be held following the present trial of Mr. George. It is quite possible he will be forced to resign after the proposed elections are held. Nobody of mediocre ability could have done what Lloyd George has done. He is bound to be a big man, a tremendously big man. If he resorted to a few tricks now and then, what statesman in a democracy like England and America, can succeed without knowing the ropes and pulling them at the opportune time. It does not follow that because George was a schemer that he was dishonest. Lincoln is credited with knowing politics. Roosevelt was a past master politician. And President Wilson was no fool, although not as smooth in politics as some. Lloyd George so far has been able to withstand all his political enemies, so despite all that can be said against him, what can be done about it.

A GOOD MOTTO.

This is my town. A good town it is, else I would not make it my home. I am resolved at all times to make of it a better town if possible, and to this end, my best efforts will always be exerted in its behalf. I will trade here; I will use the means at my disposal to supply myself and family with the things which those engaged in the mercantile business buy, with which to supply my wants. I realize that a dollar spent here stays here, and I have the opportunity again of sharing in the purchasing value of this same dollar, whereas if it is sent away, the chance is gone, and it goes to help make other sections substantial and self supporting. I also realize that every time I send my money away to other sections to buy the very things which the home merchant has already secured and has on sale, I not only pay a premium to them, but at the same time weaken the efforts of those who bear a very substantial part in my city's makeup, and who are interested very vitally in every step which is taken for civic betterment and the development along all rightful lines.

OUR VISION, HOW SMALL.

In a world which we call large, in comparison with the universe, is as the point of a pin. How small our vision as we look away into far off space, and with the natural eye observe the other heavenly bodies flung in space, and still beyond the human vision there are many other thousands which can not be seen by the naked eye, and still others which the most powerful magnifying appliances of the present time cannot bring into view, we get some idea of the obscured vision, and how small a part of this universe we really know absolutely of. Unlimited means no limit, no bounds, no circumscribed areas, no beginning and no ending; such is the universe. Finite minds can not grasp it; human agencies cannot fathom it, and we must accept the book on the subject when it says: "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork."

COLUMBUS OR LEIF THE LUCKY?

If "Norseman," whose communication in Friday morning's edition of The Tennessean so strenuously denies to Columbus the honor of discovering America, will take another look into his dictionary, he will find that "to discover" not only means "to disclose," "to reveal," "to uncover," but also "to make known."

Five hundred years before Columbus tied up the Santa Maria to the old tree on the shores of his summer isle, the Vikings had discovered America, but what good to us if they lost it again! They did, indeed, discover a new world, but they did not "make it known."

Every school history tells the tale of these old sea rovers. They landed on a strange and fertile land beyond the frozen coasts of Greenland. They ate the wild grapes of this Vinland of theirs, enjoyed an intermittent sojourn on the veriest shore-fringe of a mighty continent, then went back home, made a few records of their adventure, and after that apparently forgot all about it. As far as they were concerned the story ended there. They had discovered a new world and then had lost it again.

Feeling as we do nowadays a bit of pride in the bigness of the thing these Vikings so carelessly let slip away from them, we are hardly disposed to date the beginning of our history from such hit-or-miss discovery as that of Leif the Lucky. We are glad enough to give to his black raven banner the credit of being the first flag to which this new land ever owed allegiance. So much was acknowledged in these columns on last Flag Day. But when it comes to doing honor to the man who really put us on the map, Columbus is the man.

Nobody followed where the Vikings led, but the whole of Europe followed Columbus. Columbus widened the world's horizon whether he intended to or not, and whether or not he deserved the honor of doing it.

The year 1492 is a symbol of a new epoch. It is a definite date which introduced a broken chapter of new history, just as July 4 is the memorial date of American independence, although the Mecklenburg Declaration was signed two months before.

It is true that the adventures of the Vikings make a romantic chapter in our history. It would be hard to outdo the bravery of men who dared a wide ocean, with neither chart nor compass to guide them, and in vessels hardly bigger than fishing smacks, but when it comes to doing honor to a man who really started American history going, it is evident that the credit belongs to Columbus. We at least have never lost the world he found for us.—Nashville Tennessean.

In the young life of a nation is held its destiny. As these who are to be the rulers and custodians of the country of the future are educated and trained, so the society in all departments of the state will bear the mark, just in proportion as provision and help in the formation of these young lives for good is made. Practical education, the kind that educates the hands to work as well as the mind is needed; the former should be stressed to a great degree, because it is needed. The education of the heart is also a vital matter, for without it receiving a goodly share of attention, although the other two vital points mentioned may have received special attention, there will still be something lacking, and this will bring all to naught. The world today is not thinking aright, else there would not be so much concern for the slaughter of innocents by war and massacre. Until the heart is right, and a spirit of helpfulness is extant in the land, will wars and rumors of war cease.

The little gambusia, the mosquito lava devourer is just now the subject of considerable discussion, with the sportsman on one side and the state health authorities on the other. The sportsmen are contending for the gambusia and the game fish also in the stream. The health authorities demand that the gambusia be placed in the streams to the exclusion of the game fish, the declaration being made that the fish destroy the gambusia. It is a fine point and the outcome will be watched with a great deal of interest.

The value of time is never properly appreciated until its golden moments have flown, and become locked up in the safety vault of the past.

To do or not to do is the intersection of two important highways in every life, where upon the decision rendered then and there, depends some of the success and defeats which come to all.

The value of all knowledge is the ability to put into practical, useful application the things one has learned. If this cannot be done, its value decreases in just that proportion.

The value of all education is the ability to educate its citizens to such a degree, that they may fashion from the natural resources which abound all those things which are needed for the use and convenience of its citizens, with due consideration being exercised at all times with the training of the mind and hands, the heart is being also educated to the higher and nobler things of life as well. It is a three-fold purpose, and upon the failure of one or the other, the whole fabric fails.

The melancholy days are said to be here, but they bring with them full barns and bins of nature's store, which will offset the melancholy part of them. Usually there is a jingle in every fellow's pocket about this time of the year which is absent practically all the rest of the year.

Radio has become another triumph. At sea the distress of a ship was broadcasted with the result that timely assistance arrived in ample time to take off and save the entire crew. Wonderful age we are living in, and even greater things are in store.

There is an old Japanese proverb which says, that we get whatever we have the foresight to claim. If we are possessed of the ability to see the gems that lie at our feet so invitingly we may possess them.

One does not have to be rich to give. There are many ways of giving which are far better than money, and furnish an example of generosity which far out-distance the mere handing out of coin. There is for instance the generosity of good advice, the timely assistance with word and deed to some one whom you meet who needs just such assistance. Then the generosity of pure wholesome thought is another wholesome contribution which needs no laudation to prevent its goodness. There are a thousand and one ways one can render assistance, although they may be small blessed with what is termed a goodly store of the world's goods. Embraced in the first assertion in this paragraph is the rock which many have stumbled over, and the scars from the conflict remain until this good day.

Southern hospitality has had a severe jolt. An injunction has been asked to prevent the sale of spirits to delegates to the American legion convention at New Orleans. What do you know about that.

Wintry weather that puts meanness into the best people and rheumatism into the joints of the most supple, will soon be due.

A great painter said he gained fame, because his mother's hair was so beautiful that he kept trying to produce it on the heads of picture women. Most of our excellences are transplanted from others.

Substance and fidelity must proceed true generosity. If you have nothing to give; why be generously inclined; if you are not true why stop over with cheap generosity.

Suppose the tariff is a tax, does that make it right to shift it off on the shoulders of the other fellow.

Scipio, after conquering in Africa, was given the cognomen "Africanus"—just one new name; but Kemal, the Turk, following his recent murder victories has three additional names: Yildirim, Gazi, Mustapha, with a "Pasha" thrown in for good measure. Pshaw.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—There is under lock and key.

one achievement of the former Anna Gould which overshadows her being a Duchess. With her husband, the Duke of Talleyrand, she arrived here the other day on a trip around the world, looking decidedly younger than she did on her visit 10 years ago, when she came for the wedding of her sister, Helen Gould, to Finley J. Sheppard. The Duchess of Talleyrand was a young girl when she married her first husband, Count Boniface de Castellane, and her wedding was one of the first marriages of international importance in which an American girl was the bride. Soon after, Consuelo Vanderbilt married the Duke of Marlborough and since then we have become quite accustomed to American girls marrying titles.

It is difficult to steal and get safely away with a great many things; unusually large diamonds, Old Masters, alarm clocks, and many other conspicuous commodities but any of these are easier prey for the clever burglar than is a taxicab full of cheese. Julian Rosato and Sergi de Luzzio had not reached the point of aspiring to rob a bank or an art gallery. When they looked around for something to burglarize they thought only of life as they knew it intimately, and they picked out a delicatessen, without trying to think further. Bags of assorted cheese and bologna were piled into their taxi and they were off. But a whole taxi full of cheese is impossible to be kept secret and three detectives got a whiff of it as they spun down the street. That was enough. They put the culprits

It is amazing to discover that New York City has any limitations as regards almost anything, especially as regards numbers of people. Other cities send annual pleas to their Chambers of Commerce or the chambers send pleas to the city asking for accommodations for big conventions "in order that our city may take its rightful place in the world" and so forth. But New York! I never had supposed we were in that position. Yet here were the bankers from the country assembled with us and we couldn't give them places to sit down! The largest hall room in the world was used for the meetings, but that seats only 3,000, while there were 10,000 guardians of our money at the convention. Conventions of that semi-private sort can't be held in Madison Square Garden; they must be held in a hotel, it seems, and the managers of the convention have pointed out the necessity of increasing hotel facilities to care for just such occasions. A number of the best known hotels have announced additions in the near future, but the only one contemplated which will be able to house a convention of the bankers' size will be the new Hotel Commonwealth, now being built on the co-operative plan which will have a ballroom seating 10,000.

And now Lord Abingdon's house is to be torn down to make room for a garage! For 200 years this Tenth street mansion has watched American history made and has taken part in much of it, and now because history demands motor cars it is being destroyed. The house was built by Admiral Sir Peter Warren, who came to America long before these Colonies had any idea of asserting their independence. The city gave him 400 acres of land in Greenwich Village, including the Tenth street property, to show its appreciation of his brilliant record in the English Navy. When his daughter, Charlotte, married Lord Abingdon, he built this house for them, a splendid place with solid black marble fire places and shadowy halls. It is a tenement house today, set between two big buildings and soon to vanish along with the broadened skirts and satin knee breeches which it used to know.

"R. U. R.," the new Theater Guild production, shows the Guild in a fantastic humor once again. We enjoy fantastic humor, when it is expressed as cleverly as the Guild expresses it and evidently large crowds of other people do too for the play, which has just opened, is one of the sensations of the season. It is a Frankenstein story done in a philosophical and political minded manner and on an overwhelming scale. "Rossum's Universal Robots" is what the initials stand for and a Robot is a mechanical being, adduced from the laboratories and machine shops of a family named Rossum. Millions of these robots do the chores of the world from coal mining to stenography. Using what mechanical mind they have and spurred on by a radical biologist they revolt, and I should say that there were more real thrills in that revolt than in any of the "mystery melodramas" of our Broadway stage.

Piano and Organ Keyboard.

The keys of an organ require light sun. They go yellow because this requisite has been denied them. The keyboard should not be covered, except when the room is being swept. A cloth dampened with milk is good for keeping the keys in proper condition. Care should be taken that there is not too much liquid on the cloth, which should be used to cleanse the keys and then rubbed dry with any smooth white cloth.

No more Rheumatism

"Suffering has gone from your face, mother!"

S. S. S. Is the Great Builder of Red Blood Cells and Rheumatism Must Go Just Try It!

"Rheumatism? Me? No, indeed, it's all gone, every bit of it! It's sunshine and joy for me now for the first time in years. I feel a wonderful glow again in the free motion I used to have when my days were younger. I look at my hands and think of the twists and swellings they used to have. I bend way over to the floor, I haven't been able to do that in many years. I can thank S. S. S. for it all! To me it was a rising sun of joy and liberty. Brothers and sisters in misery, do not close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. It is here and now for all of you. S. S. S. is waiting to help you. There is a reason why S. S. S. will help you. When you increase the number of your red blood cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. Everything depends on blood strength. Blood which is minus sufficient red cells leads to a long list of troubles. Rheumatism is one of them. S. S. S. is the great blood-cleaner, blood-builder, system strengthener, nerve invigorator. It stops skin eruptions, too, pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema. It builds up run-down, tired men and women, beautifies complexion, makes the flesh firm, slims S. S. S. today. It is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

TWO FROCKS FOR DAY-TIME WEAR

Some Knitted Dresses Show
Interesting Lace Effects
Woven Into the Material

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

Lacy Effects
of Contrasting
Color Are Woven
Into These Two
Smart Frocks.

THE rage for the knitted frock has brought on an entirely new interpretation which should prove very popular for the warmer spring months.

The frocks shown here owe their daintiness and charm to the new stitch, which forms a clever woven lace. Very early in the season, an ultra-smart young miss was seen wearing a frock of this type in brown which just peeped out beneath a long mink coat. The effect was stunning.

These frocks are equally smart for wear without a wrap on warmer days, and the two shown here present interesting variations.

At the left, yellow fibre silk simulates narrow feather banding on a frock of cocoa brown. It appears on the blouse and on the simple apron tunic which graces front and back.

The frock at the right is in brownish autumn-leaf tone, and is cleverly made from two soft scarfs of this lacy knit stitch. Brown scalloped borders form the neck and hemline, this arrangement allowing the hem to drop longer at either side. Narrow brown ribbon bows lace the scarf ends together at the neck, matching ribbon forming the girdle and sash.

NEWS OF MOULTON AND LAWRENCE COUNTY

MOULTON, Ala., Oct. 18.—Special.—The public schools of Lawrence County opened yesterday in all the rural districts excepting in a few that had to have the openings postponed on account of the completion of a room or some other cause and a few others that as yet have no teachers; it appeared two weeks ago that contracts could be made at once for a teacher to fill each vacancy but in the past ten days several resignations have occurred that make it necessary to find other teachers.

The Institute the latter part of the week was well attended by one hundred and thirty or more teachers; Misses Cassie R. Spencer of Montgomery was the representative from the State Department of Education and with the help of the supervisor of rural schools did much to make each more or less of worth to the teachers. Schools are opening two weeks earlier than ever before in the history of the county.

Notice has been given by the Federal Government that sealed bids will now be received for proposals to erect and equip a building in Moulton for a new postoffice; the building is to be a thoroughly modern structure of brick, concrete, or wood of best quality; the owner is to equip it with every convenience specified; there are to be money order and registry windows, parcel post windows and general and stamp windows; three stamp cabinets with cash drawers, letter and paper and package drops, 140 small and 40 medium lock boxes, and 10 drawers. A roll top desk and revolving chair and all other necessities for an up-to-date small office; the present postmistress, Miss Lacy Downing, has been notified the Federal inspector when she told him no splitpens were needed as none of the five carriers or two clerks use tobacco in any form. The building is to be 64 feet long and 12 feet wide for a period of five to ten years.

"PETTING PARTIES" MAY CAUSE ROAD'S CLOSING

URBANA, Ohio, Oct. 18.—As a result of the change that the highway has become "a rendezvous for petting parties," the old Holycross road, near here, may be closed.

The accusation has been lodged by a number of local citizens. At a joint meeting Champaign and Union County Commissioners will consider the matter. The road lies partly in both counties.

It is said the by-road is little used and that high hedges on both sides of the highway afford a rare seclusion.

Many Bug Varieties.
We have in the United States a long list of insects we usually designate as beetles, says the American Forestry Magazine. There are some fifteen thousand different kinds of them, and they range in size all the way from little ones that it takes a microscope to see to such things as the giant water bug.

YOUR HEALTH

More Pleurisy Facts You Should Know and Ponder

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

YESTERDAY I told you about the pleural membrane, how it lines the chest wall and furnishes the covering to the lungs. In health this membrane is smooth and slippery. In disease it is rough and granular, almost like sandpaper. The latter condition indicates what is called "pleurisy."

When you have an attack of pleurisy, every time you take a deep breath there is an almost unbearable cutting pain in the chest. This is usually described as a "stitch in the side."

Perfectly healthy persons are unlikely to have pleurisy. What I mean by this is that there is usually some underlying disturbance like tuberculosis, for instance. The universality of tubercular infection is a most unbelievable fact. Most of us have at one time or another some evidence of tuberculosis.

Pleurisy is one of these symptoms. I am not telling you this to alarm you, but for the purpose of putting you on your guard. In its beginning, tuberculosis may be said to be 100 per cent curable. Tuberculosis is dangerous only when it is neglected.

If the pleuritic attack is really tubercular in origin, that particular cause should have no other effect than merely to give it exceptionally careful treatment, and, after recovery, to cause you to lead the sort of life which will ensure your health and physical prosperity.

Three eminent medical writers followed up their pleurisy cases, keeping their patients under observation for many years. Here are the results: In group one, out of ninety cases of acute pleurisy, thirty-two ultimately developed tuberculosis of the lungs; in group two, out of one hundred and thirty cases of acute pleurisy, fifty had tuberculosis within seven years. In group three, out of eighty-eight cases, thirty became tubercular.

While all these cases of pleurisy may have had tuberculosis as an underlying cause, it appears to be proved that about 30 per cent of the patients probably because of their neglect to care for themselves, developed serious tuberculosis of the lungs.

Other cases of pleurisy may be traced to the germ of pneumonia. Such attacks are secondary usually to trouble in the lungs. The pneumonia may be slight, but yet be severe enough to result in pleurisy.

When there is a pus infection in some distant part of the body the germs may be carried to the pleural cavity, and produce trouble there. I know of a recent case where a man had several teeth badly abscessed. Such germs seem to find their way into the tissues, and ultimately migrated to the chest, resulting in a tedious attack of pleurisy.

Eggs of the pleural sac may be a signal to scarlet fever, influenza and other infectious fevers.

A broken rib with damage of the membrane may be followed by purulent pleurisy. Punctured wounds of the chest have a similar effect.

No matter what the cause, careful treatment will lead to complete recovery.

You Can Win $2000.00

Costs You Nothing to Try—So Solve This Puzzle

How Many Words Can You Find in This Picture Commencing With the Letter "F"?

For example, you will notice "Fire," "Fiddle," "Foundry," etc. Are you able to find 20 words commencing with the letter "F"? The picture is very clear; there can be no mistakes. You will find it very interesting to look for these words, and may win a big prize. Anybody can try. Cost nothing. Why should you not be the winner of the $2000.00?

YOU SHOULD WIN

real chance of winning at least one of the prizes offered—there are fifteen of them. Why not try for the big prize and win $2000.00. Somebody will win it—your chances are as good as anybody's.

Just think what you could do with the money, $2000.00! Could buy an automobile and leave enough balance to make a payment on a cozy home. Perhaps you have in mind just the thing you would like to do if you received a check for $2000.00. Certainly you owe it to yourself to try to solve this puzzle. You will find the trying very easy and pleasant.

The Way to Win One of the Twenty Prizes
You do not have to spend a penny to get into this contest. It is not necessary for you to order any Yeastolax. If your list is adjudged to be one of the twenty best you will receive one of the cash prizes. Without your order for Yeastolax, if your list of words commencing with the letter "F" is the largest you receive the first prize of $50.00. If the judges award you the second prize, without your order for Yeastolax, you will get a check for $25.00, and so on down the line as shown in this announcement.

Win the Big Prize—$2000.00

If you choose you can win a great deal more than the Class A prize. All that is necessary for you to qualify your list for the BIGGER PRIZES is to send in an order for one or more packages of Yeastolax. Look over carefully the schedule of prizes as classified in this announcement. You will find that if you send in $1.00 for one package of Yeastolax and the judges award you first prize you will get $500.00.
